

In early 2017, The Miles Foundation assessed progress we've made on our Journey to Impact, and where we still need to grow. Our conclusion? We need to go deeper. Only by focusing our resources can we make great strides (rather than baby steps) toward the kind of change that impacts generations to come. So here's to a year dedicated to depth – of relationships, of listening, of learning, and of honesty about what's working (and what's not). By going deeper with our partners, we hope to create an environment that enables bold innovation, scalable solutions, and measurable impact.
